The Northern Pacific Railway

Is the PIONEER LINE to and through the NORTHWEST. Of the seven and a half millions of population in the SEVEN NORTHERN PACIFIC STATES, 75% is native born American, coming from nearly or quite every State in the Union. The conditions are unsurpassed with regard to Transportation, Soil, Water, School, Crop, Dairy, Poultry, Bees and Climate. Practically all religious denominations are represented there. You can make a new home upon irrigated or unirrigated land as you choose. Fruits, grains, grasses, and root crops all do well and—MARK THIS—CORN IS GROWN SUCCESSFULLY IN EVERY NORTHERN PACIFIC STATE.

In attending the next Annual Meeting of the Church of the Brethren at Seattle, be certain that your ticket reads over the Northern Pacific at least one way. You will in this way see the Mississippi Valley and the Minnesota Lake Park Region; the wheat fields of the Red River Valley and the wide flax and other grain fields of the North Dakota prairies; the beautiful Yellowstone Valley of Montana where the government is reclaiming large areas; the wonderful Gallatin Valley, where clover and alfalfa flourish; the Bitter Root, Clark Fork and Flathead Valleys, the home of grains, vegetables, cherries and apples; the prolific Spokane region; the Big Bend grain country of Idaho and Washington; the famous Yakima and Kittitas Valleys and the attractive dairy and small fruit districts of Puget Sound.

In a scenic way the Northern Pacific country is unsurpassed. Rivers, lakes, mountains, fertile valleys, craggy canyons are seen and admired. Don't forget—have your ticket read through St. Paul-Minneapolis and over

Union Pacific

Offers you a number of advantages that you should bear in mind when planning your trip to the Seattle Convention.

Its route lies through the richest section of the West, both in agricultural wealth and scenic beauty. A large portion of the line is double tracked; its roadbed is ballasted with dustless Sherman Gravel, and you are afforded the protection of Automatic Electric Block Safety Signals. These and a number of other features have given to the Overland Route its title

Standard Road of the West

The Union Pacific operates two splendidly equipped trains to the Pacific Northwest every day. The latter part of the route lies for 200 miles along the majestic Columbia River which unfolds a constantly changing panorama of unexcelled natural beauties.

Travelers to the Pacific Northwest may, at a slight additional cost, make a side trip from Pocatello to Yellowstone National Park where are gathered myriads of wonders a few of which are geysers, waterfalls, beautifully colored rock formations, bubbling pools, hot and cold water in close proximity, snow capped mountains and other attractions that never fail to interest. A complete tour of the Park can be made in 5 days—shorter tours for those who have less time to spare. Park season, June 16 to Sept. 16.

For literature relative to the Pacific Northwest and Yellowstone National Park, and information relative to train service, sleeping car reservations, stopover privileges, side trips, etc., call on nearest Union Pacific representative, or address

"THE GREAT NORTHERN EXPRESS"

Daily Train from Kansas City and St. Louis

Three daily electric lighted, modern trains to Seattle and the Pacific Coast. Excellent service and equipment—everything for the comfort and convenience of the traveler.

The route is an interesting one, following the windings of the mighty Mississippi—through the Lake Park region of Minnesota—along historic old Indian trails—across the fertile prairies of the Dakotas—through the scenic Rockies of Montana, skirting the southern border of Glacier National Park, Uncle Sam's newest and only national playground on the main line of a transcontinental railway, for over sixty miles—over the summits of the Cascade Range and along the picturesque shores of Puget Sound.

You can stop off at any point along the route of the Great Northern Railway and visit your friends and relatives if you desire.

Write for new folder just issued containing detailed information regarding the trip. If you are interested in the agricultural advantages of the "Zone of Plenty," we will be glad to send you "FREE" illustrated booklets telling about the many opportunities to procure a farm home in this wonderfully productive country.

Special All Steel Train Over America's Newest and Most Scenic Route

To Seattle for the 1914 Conference of the Church of the Brethren

□ For the accommodation of the Brethren attending the 1914 Annual Conference, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway has arranged to run a special train over its line—Chicago to Seattle, Washington.

□ The special will leave the Union Passenger Station, Chicago, at a time and date selected to best suit the convenience of the Brethren, and which will be announced later.

□ The equipment of the special, all-steel, all-owned and operated by the railway company, will consist of standard and tourist sleeping cars with the renowned "St. Paul"—"longer, higher, wider" berths, dining car and coaches. The cars will be similar to those operated on the famous transcontinental trains, "The Olympian" and "The Columbian."

□ The route is over the latest built of transcontinental lines, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, the only line operating over its own rails all the way, Chicago to Seattle—the line that has revealed to the tourist a new America with new glories of scenery which for grandeur are unequalled in this country—the line that has opened to the settler millions of acres of the richest territory in the Northwest—land which costs much less and yields double that of Middle West and Eastern land.

□ To the traveler over this trail of steel, which the "St. Paul Road" has blazed through a new country, there is unfolded a panorama of beautiful scenes, the infinitely varied wonder of which he could not have foreseen.

□ The line is the shortest between Lake Michigan and Puget Sound. It is equipped with block signals. Curves and grades have been reduced to a minimum; road bed is well ballasted throughout; the heaviest steel rails are used and the bridges are all of steel. In short, no thought, labor or expense has been spared to insure passengers the greatest degree of ease, comfort and safety while in transit.

□ Therefore, if you would enjoy the best, make your trip to the Northwest via the

CHICAGO Milwaukee & St. Paul RAILWAY

□ Literature describing by word and picture the service and the scenery to be enjoyed en route to Seattle on the Brethren Special may be secured free upon request to any agent or representative of this company, or from Elder Lemuel Hillery.

By I. N. H. Beahm.

When a giant oak is culled from the forest, the effect is striking. It takes years to fill the vancancy. So, in the forest of men, when the ax fells a Hillery, the vacancy is appalling, and time only, under a wise Providence, can supply the equivalent of our loss. But the gates of death shall not prevail against the church of Jesus Christ.

Elder Lemuel Hillery came to this life May 14, 1843, amid the beauties of Frederick County, Md. He died at Goshen, Ind., Aug. 31, 1912, at 8 P. M. The fatal malady was uræmic poisoning. Bro. Hillery suffered greatly from the effects of soldier life, and appeared much older than he was. He died at the age of sixty-nine years, three months and seventeen days.

Eld. Lemuel Hillery.

Eld. Hillery was one of a family of six. He was married to Mary Nicholson, of Marshalltown, Iowa, Nov. 13, 1866. This marriage was blessed with four girls and one boy. His second marriage was to Aloretta Nihart, at Middlebury, Ind., April 15, 1890, and gave the race one more—a daughter. A third marriage was to Mina Cripe, of Goshen, Ind., Sept. 21, 1895, who survives him. Sister Cripe Hillery proved a most capable and tender nurse in the great afflictions of her husband's declining years. Bro. Hillery was baptized by the Brethren in April, 1865. He was chosen to the ministry at Marshalltown, Iowa, in October, 1865. In 1881 he was ordained to the eldership.

Bro. Hillery was a typical pioneer preacher, and succeeded in the organization of sundry congregations of Brethren throughout the West. He was laid to rest at Goshen Sept. 3, 1912. Bro. W. R. Deeter then preached to a large concourse of people from 1 Cor. 15.

The writer heard Bro. Hillery first at Sams Creek, Md., in the ordination of Bro. Wm. Franklin to the eldership in 1885, just twenty-eight years ago. He made a marked and favorable impression at that time. He has been remembered vividly and loved strongly ever since in a very special way by the author of these lines.

His eye was a veritable searchlight of psychic power. The music of his voice in richness and resonance was captivating. His memory was a treasure-house. His flow of words was a river of delight. His logic was strong. His description was vivid. His insight of men and things was keen and clever. He had a marvelous power in delineating human character. He had a most discerning vision of gospel truth.

He was a modern Elijah. He was valiant in the exposition of truth. He was scathing and terrific in denunciation of evil. His oratory was a psychic Niagara. His fund of story and anecdote was the best that the writer ever met. An ample description of his life in book form would be a literary and spiritual feast.

Elgin Bonnet Co., Elgin, Ill.

He was born May 14. So was the writer. He was, for this reason, and many greater ones, very dear to me. He always seemed so fatherly and helpful to a young and needy fellow worker in the gospel ministry. Truly, an Apollos has passed from among us! A mighty one in Israel has been gathered unto his fathers!

Sister Edyth Hillery Hay, of Springdale, Ark., has paid the following beautiful tribute to the memory of her father:

"What would we take for our memories? Who can estimate their value? While it is far from wise to live always in the past, yet certain memories may prove a powerful stimulus to present-day activities.

"First, last, and always the very least I can say of my father is this: He has ever been my ideal of true manhood in Christ Jesus.

"In his home he was kind, yet firm; gentle, yet unrelenting in his convictions of right and wrong; sympathetic—very much so in his latter days—his concern for his loved ones being almost pathetic. His one regret seemed to be the care he caused my dear mother on account of his bodily infirmities. He bore his misery bravely, and felt the deepest regard for the one who so patiently sought to ease his every pain.

"As a minister of the Gospel he was well known, his fearless courage in proclaiming the plain, unpolished truth being very characteristic. He was loyal to a degree seldom seen. In fact, some thought him too stern and uncompromising. Was he? Let God judge. For my part, I can only repeat: He was my ideal of true manhood in Christ Jesus.

"This is a poor tribute. Only those who have lost so noble a father can appreciate the aching void that is left in the heart!"

Again, in a letter of later date, Sister Hay says: "Father was a man of very strong likes and dislikes,—that is, in a certain way. He loved every one,—had the greatest concern for the salvation of every soul. But there were some for whom he had esteem that was almost surpassing. I sometimes think he was partial to a certain extent."

Bro. Hillery was not a man of affairs. He was a preacher of unusual gift and power. He was an orator of rarest type. He was a Christian philosopher.

Look at that apostolic face! Beneath that impressive physiognomy lay a greater fire of genius.

He was at one time not only a soldier of carnal warfare, but as well a Mason of high degree. When he accepted Christ he withdrew for conscientious and scriptural reasons, and became a bold and strong defender of the all-sufficiency of the church as an agency of social development, beneficent work, and religious opportunity. Organic, oath-bound secrecy to him was unnecessary and wrong. He was a master in presenting the openness and freedom of Christianity, as opposed to secretism.

Once upon a time he was invited to preach some distance from home, in the pioneer West. The place was a deserted church—deserted because the ministers of that denomination had been ill treated by being carried around astride fence rails, and such like. They were really thus driven away. It became a place of rowdies—or was.

Bro. Hillery accepted the call. He was later informed of the perilous incident upon going there to preach. He told his wife of the case. She told him if he was afraid to go he should "stay by the stuff," and she would go. This he could not resist. He braced up. He went. As he drew near the church he found the river too high to ford. He arranged for his horse, and boated across. The hour came. A fair-sized audience was present. He opened the meeting. He took his text, and began preaching. Very soon he observed five or more heads together, and engaged in conversation. Soon they arose and made for the door, near the pulpit.

TRAINING THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER (First Standard Course).

By E. B. Hoff, H. K. Ober, J. S. Flory, I. B. Trout.

The authors of the work being well known, thoroughly competent, experienced writers and teachers, there need be no doubt as to the merits of the book, and its supreme worth to all earnest Sunday-school workers. The completion of this course entitles the student to a diploma.

The Church of the Brethren is in the front rank in Sunday-school work now, but teacher-training is a necessity if we desire to hold our present position. Send for a copy of this book. Bound in cloth. Price, per copy, 40c.

He paused, with impressive silence—faced the leader, a stalwart and burly fellow of the “wild and woolly West”—looked fiercely with his great, piercing eyes right into the man’s soul, saying with searching, fearless emphasis, “For God’s sake, men, take your seats! This is my time. When I am through then it will be your time.” The men were overpowered. They returned. They listened well. He won.

Within a few months the leader of that gang was baptized. He became a faithful deacon. A strong church was established where weak men failed.

He was a John the Baptist in rebuke, a master in evangelism, an apostle of truth, an angel of mercy.

Will Not Be Convinced.

Those who make up their minds not to be convinced of their error, evidence or no evidence, remind us of the man who got it into his head that he was dead. It was an hallucination, of course. Many tried to convince him that he was not dead, but to no avail. At length a surgeon heard of the case, and declared that he could convince the fellow that he was much alive. He came to the man and said, “Don’t you know that dead men don’t bleed?” “Yes,” replied the crazy fellow, “I know dead men don’t bleed.” “Well, now,” said the physician, in the presence of half a dozen people, “let me have your arm.” The man obeyed. The physician made a small incision in the flesh and the demented man bled profusely. “Now,” said the physician, “you see how you are bleeding and you know you said dead men don’t bleed, therefore you are not dead.” To which the man replied, “Doctor, that only goes to show me that dead men do bleed.”

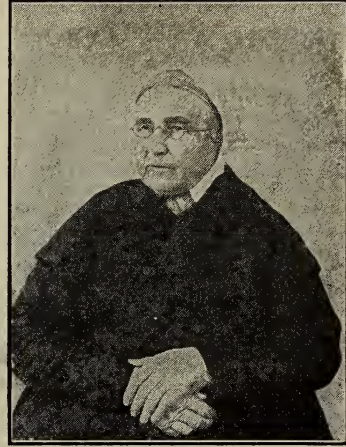

The soul needs daily grace, as much as the body does daily bread, to enable it to perform its daily duty.

Amanda Miller Garber.

By Mary Garber.

Dec. 18, 1908, at her home in Portland, Ind., in sight of the church she loved better than anything else in this world, our aged mother, Amanda Miller

Amanda Miller Garber.

Garber, fell asleep. Though scarcely known outside of her own little world, in it she reigned supremely, for by her generous kindnesses, her loving charities, and her devout life, she had won the hearts of all, and to all she was a sympathetic friend and counselor. The motto of her life was, “If you have nothing good to say of people, say nothing at all,” and she refused to listen to the neighborhood gossip, for, said she, “if it is true, it would not help matters for me to know it, and if it is not true, I don’t want to hear it.”

Apart from her life of unselfish charities, she was really the mother of the Portland church. Though many others assisted and helped to foster the work there, it was mainly her instrumentality that started it. When, in 1856, with her husband, Henry Garber,—then not a member,—she came to Portland, to make for themselves and little family a home, the nearest church was Union City, twenty miles away. Thus, added to the many other hardships of this pioneer mother, was that of isolation from her church relations.

is in demand. Many housewives tell us that they have laid aside all other Cook Books and use only this one. It contains twice as much material as the old edition of which almost 75,000 have been sold. Besides containing more recipes it contains many valuable features not contained in the other book. It is bound in white washable oilcloth and will be sent postpaid to any address for 60 cents. Agents wanted.

Impelled by the intense longing for preaching, calls were sent, and not infrequently answered. The meetings were held in the home or, in summer time, out of doors. It was literally true of Portland that "the groves were God's first temples," and because of these meetings in the groves there were made possible the baptismal scenes.

Thus, one by one, the number grew. My father also came, among others. In course of time more regular services were held, and a church was organized. Bro. Daniel Waltz was elected to the ministry. Later, our late, lamented Bro. Renner, of Kansas, Bro. Neher, of Florida, and my father were chosen as ministers. For several years Bro. Waltz was elder in charge, the meetings being held wherever a chance afforded.

When Bro. Waltz was stricken with disease, and Brethren Renner and Neher moved away, the burden of the church rested upon father, but there was mother always ready and willing to help and encourage him.

Twenty-one years ago, by their untiring efforts, the churchhouse in South Portland was built. Father being alone, much of the time, filled the four monthly appointments,—one over twenty miles from home. Never have I once heard mother complain. She was always ready to help him go, though she could not always go with him. When his life's labors closed, in 1901, many said, "This is the end of the Portland church," but mother said, "Now, children" (which meant the church children), "we must not give up; we will have a brighter day yet." Loyal brethren came to the rescue and served us faithfully, but their efforts seemed of little avail. Still, because mother would not let us give up, we struggled on, and today the church of Portland, Ind., lives, and souls are being born into the kingdom, because, more than threescore years ago, a young girl gave her heart and life to the service of her Master.

How truly could she say when she lay down upon her pillow for her last, long sleep, "'Tis so sweet to trust in Jesus, so sweet," for she knew the blessedness of a life of unfaltering trust in Christ's precious promises.

Brethren and sisters, not only at Portland but wherever the work has been hard and the results disheartening, know that the saints in heaven are keeping watch over your labors, and if you keep working faithfully, your reward is sure.

The Skillful Engineer.

During the digging of holes for some telegraph poles the workmen noticed a mouse which had fallen into one of the cavities. For hours the tiny prisoner raced frantically around the enclosure. Then he seemed to get over his hysterics and set his wits to work. Soon he began systematically to dig a spiral groove, round and round the inner surface of the hole, which was several feet deep. Night and day the busy little captive worked away, digging little pockets here and there as his improvised staircase got farther from the ground, so that he might rest from his hard labors. The workmen kept him supplied with food, and after the third day the indefatigable little creature reached the top and enthusiastic cheering welcomed his freedom.

The Test.

A bookseller tried to persuade Poin-dinterro to purchase a book on hypnotic suggestion.

"You have only to read it," he said, "and you will possess an irresistible influence on your fellow-men."

"Have you read it?" asked Poin-dinterro.

"Certainly," said the bookseller.

"In that case, why do you not merely will that I should buy it?"

The Ancient Cliff Dwellers.

S. Z. Sharp.

Many centuries ago there lived in parts of New Mexico, Arizona, southwestern Colorado and southeastern Utah, a race of people, differing in their mode of habitation from all the other original inhabitants of America. They neither lived in wigwams, or tepees, like other American Indians, nor built cities like the ancient Mexicans and Peruvians, but sought some high natural mountain wall or cliff tains about one hundred rooms. Another one, Cliff Palace, is 421 feet front and has 127 rooms.

Some groups of dwellings are built into the face of the rock cliff, high above its base, and, where no natural caves appeared, artificial ones were cut into the rock. One group of dwellings, 800 feet above the river at the base of the cliff, is so constructed that there is no visible way of approach. It is supposed that it was reached by a narrow path from and into the face of it, where there were openings or caves, they built their habitations, sometimes in places that seemed almost inaccessible. These houses were built of stone, ingeniously walled together to form one continuous block, often four or five stories high. Some idea may be gained as to how these houses are built together from the illustration given above, which is a photograph taken from Verde Cañon, in the National Park of southwestern Colorado. This group of dwellings is 175 feet front, built under an immense overhanging rock, and con-above, and during the many centuries of erosion it has been entirely worn away. The evidences are that this race of people became extinct many centuries ago; so long, indeed, that the neighboring tribes have no tradition concerning this ancient race and can give no account of it whatever. There are hieroglyphic writings on the rock walls, but no scientist has yet been found who could decipher them.

That this people was in some degree civilized and possessed some architectural skill is indicated by the neat walls in the ancient irrigation ditches, as well as their farming implements, household utensils and fine cotton fabrics.

A large number of relics have been collected from the various habitations and placed into a museum at Manitou Springs. Over 1,400 different articles are exhibited, including mummies, pitchers, bowls, jars, cooking vessels, corn, squash and melon seed, necklaces, charms of stone, bone knives, awls, spears, arrows, stone axes and hoes, grindstones, etc. Thus lived and perished a race without a living witness to tell their story.

Some years ago a society was formed by ladies in Denver for the purpose of preserving these ancient habitations and relics. They petitioned Congress to set aside, as a permanent reservation, this territory in which these habitations are found. Congress responded and made it a National Park. The whole territory is wild and picturesque, and some parts are difficult of approach.

Elder M. M. Bashor.

By John W. Miller.

The late Bro. Michael M. Bashor, of Oregon, who was born in Rockingham County, Va., Sept. 29, 1830, was a remarkable man in many ways. Not that his life was made up of unusual happenings, but rather that it exerted a steady, generating power, whose momentum still lives—a man with great courage to assume responsibility, and capacity to do his duty in the heat of great conflicts. He was a noble, earnest and devout man, clad with the Christian graces. His indomitable will, latent genius and high moral character gave him early prestige with the people.

He was reared to manhood in Virginia, and in 1848 moved to Washington County, Tenn. Of his parents I know nothing, except that his father was a miller, which trade the son followed for several years. Young Michael was bubbling over with enterprise. He was successful in a number of business undertakings, but not until late in life. He acquired fixed habits of reading, and in this way, and through extended travel, he was well informed on all important subjects. As he increased in wealth, his large-hearted liberality and generosity were extended. He showed a great disposition to help the poor. Thus the plainness, evenness, simplicity and sincerity of his life won to him friendship and esteem.

Dec. 21, 1850, he was married to Susan Garst at Bradyville, Tenn. Fourteen children were born to them, of whom ten are in the church, he baptizing nearly all of them himself. Mrs. Dr. Roe, of Idaho, is the youngest, to whom I am indebted for much information of his early life. Most of the family are now living in the four Pacific States.

In 1852 Bro. Bashor and his wife were baptized by the sainted Eld. John Kline, of Virginia, whose name is still revered throughout the Brotherhood. He soon obtained a ready knowledge of the Bible, and was equal to the task of debating with most any one on moral and religious subjects. He was elected to the ministry in January, 1860, by the Lime-stone (Tennessee) church. This was at the beginning of the Civil War. He suffered many hardships and privations. His flock was ravaged by the soldiers, and horses and cattle were stolen. The family, many times, were driven from their beds in midwinter. Bullets from both sides struck their building, which was of brick.

Bro. Bashor soon gained a reputation as a preacher of ability, traveling a good deal on horseback. He went to school at this time and most assiduously applied himself to his studies. At the same time he gave his attention to earnest Christian efforts, to save his fellow-men. He preached scores of funeral sermons.

He was not a highly-educated man, but possessed great natural endowments, and might with ease have attained to literary eminence and distinction, but his unswerving consecration to the work he set out to do held him inflexibly to his purpose—that of preaching the Gospel.

In 1872 he, with his family, moved to Colorado, where he began farming and sheep raising in a new, unbroken country. Reverses in a financial way came fast, on account of droughts and grasshoppers, but success soon afterwards came to him by rapid strides. He traveled extensively at this time, preaching the Gospel in Colorado, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, and was the first man to work for and build a church in the State of Colorado.

In 1879 he moved to Oregon, a few miles south of Portland, and settled on a farm. Here he was in close contact with this great metropolis, and in the neighboring towns did a great deal of preaching. His time now was wholly given to that work. He was ordained as elder by the Salem church in 1880, and soon had charge of churches from Ashland, Oregon, to Northern Idaho. In 1894 he was appointed to serve on the District Mission Board of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. He filled that position for several years. He was Moderator of District Meeting a number of times, and served on the Standing Committee at Annual Conference three times. He was free to speak in public, and when he spoke it counted. He could forecast the discussions and judgments of other men very readily, and was quick to discriminate between right and wrong opinions of men on important subjects.

Bro. Bashor could readily adapt himself to the varied conditions and peculiarities of men, and in council had power to penetrate an involved question to the core, and of persuading others as he himself believed. He had a clear eye for elemental truth, and carried this truth out to the letter and spirit, but was not always as successful in getting those of his church to observe them. His faculty of expression, stimulated by the Word and Spirit of God, caused him to unfold his innate genius as a master of men and circumstances. The President of the Lewiston State Normal College, Idaho, who knew Eld. Bashor personally, said of him: "He possessed a large heart, a brilliant intellect, and a forceful character." He was as great in heart as he was in mind. Amid crushing labors and anxiety, he had a Christlike forgiveness. His abounding honesty and homely humor made him a great reform worker in the home and the community.

He was a strong revivalist, relying rather on the truths of the Gospel than on excitement brought on by the recital of deathbed scenes, etc. His preaching frequently sought expression in flights of eloquence. His strong, clear voice, his commanding figure, with flashing eyes and self-possessed demeanor, and his clear and smooth language, made him a very attractive person in the pulpit. In praying as well as in preaching he would "raise the roof,"—as we sometimes say,—and the walls would ring with his voice. In fact, he was one of the most spiritually-minded men in the West. His influence was very wide outside of church circles.

Bro. Bashor earnestly espoused the cause of prohibition, and undertook the task of forming public opinion upon vital questions, which put him into prominence before the people. His whole life was expressive of an unselfish devotion to the welfare of others, and an inflexible fidelity to the great principles of church and state. His counsel was sought by men and women in all walks of life, even by the educators of the State. Much of the success of Mineral Spring College, Oregon, is due to the skillful works of his hands. Bro. Bashor donated the grounds for the buildings and campus, and served on the Board of Trustees for this and other institutions for thirty-five years.

He preached his last sermon in July, 1907, in the Baptist church in Albany, Oregon. He was at his best and preached an eloquent and able discourse, and made his appeals so strong that they were almost irresistible. His heart's desire was that the churches in Linn County might be awakened to a greater zeal and remain faithful.

He died June 19, 1908, near Lewiston, Idaho, at the junction of the Snake and Clear Water Rivers, where he had gone some time before, to the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. F. Rhinehart, to seek recuperation from bodily ailments. On the Monday following, his mortal remains were consigned to the cemetery, overlooking these rivers, to await the resurrection morn.

Thus God buries the workers, but the work goes on by others through each succeeding generation. Those who knew him best loved him most. May they, by the inspiration of his life, continue the work that he did for the public weal!

A Bobolink with a Canary Song.

A friend of mine tells of a bobolink which learned to sing like a canary. He was captured when quite small and given a cage beside a fine singer, for which he soon exhibited a great attachment. He would sit perfectly still on his perch for a long time, watching his friend intently, then try his best to imitate his sweet notes. He tried for three or four weeks before making any progress; then he succeeded in sounding one note almost correctly. When he realized his success his wild joy was pathetic, and the canary's pleasure was very evident. Then he redoubled his efforts until he could sing nearly the whole canary song. After that he and Dick always sang in concert. But, strangest of all, his character seemed to change with his song. Instead of singing but a short time in the spring, as bobolinks do, he sang all the time except when molting. And he imitated his friend's characteristics so perfectly that he became a canary in all but appearance.—Ella H. Stratton, in Suburban Life.

Edwards' Summary.—"Thus we see that there are in this province fifteen churches of Tunker Baptists, to which appertain eight ordained ministers and thirteen exhorters or probationers, and four meetinghouses. The reason of their having no more places of worship is, that they chose rather to meet from house to house, in imitation of the primitive Christians. We see also that their families are about 419, which contain about 2,095 souls, allowing five to a family; whereof 763 persons are baptized and in communion. There are more Tunkers about Conecocheague, Antletam, etc., but they border on Maryland and belong to churches in that province." (It seems that Edwards made a slight mistake in totaling the members and exhorters.)

In his account of the Brethren in New Jersey, published in 1790, he states that there is one congregation of forty-six members in Jersey, with no meeting-house and two exhorters. In Maryland, he says, there are seven congregations, and in the more southern States ten. To Pennsylvania, at that time, he still gives fifteen. So the statistics, outside of Pennsylvania, were likely gathered shortly after 1770. His history of our congregations in Maryland and the South was never published. The manuscript is said to have been burned in the fire of the Baptist Publication Society. The average size of the congregations in Pennsylvania is fifty-two members. Allowing this average to the congregations throughout the country, of which, it will be seen, there were thirty-three, the entire baptized membership of our Brotherhood, at the beginning of our national existence, was something like 1,716. There was about one elder to two congregations in Pennsylvania, or, throughout the country, there would have been about seventeen. In Pennsylvania there was about one exhorter to a congregation, or in the country we might expect to find about thirty,—less than fifty members in all.

It must be remembered that the Ephrata Society, which at this time had over 200 adherents, was included in Edwards' figures. After 1770 that ceased to be an increasing factor, and gradually dwindled into comparatively nothing. But, including that, the church has doubled herself six times since then, or she has, on an average, doubled herself in twenty-four years, nor did we receive immigrants to swell our ranks. By 1937 we should number 200,000. But,

Elder B. F. Heckman.

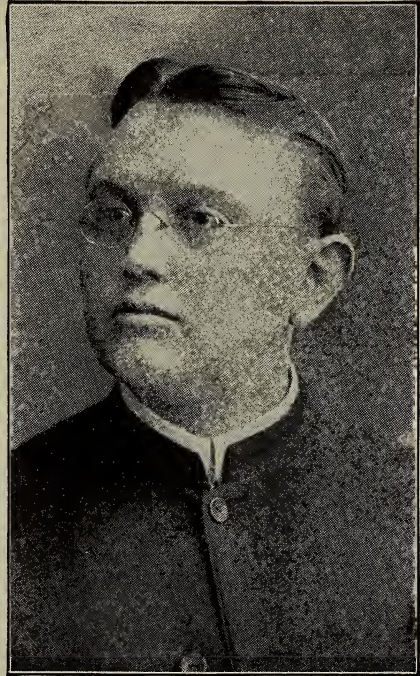

By J. Hugh Heckman.

Character, rather than duration, determines the value of a life on the earth; nevertheless, it is natural to expect a normal individual to live more than thirty years. Faith in this human probability made it difficult to credit the message which came from China, Jan. 15, 1913, stating, "Heckman is dead!" Now that the shock is past we realize that Benjamin Franklin Heckman lives on earth only in the memories of those who knew him.

His days in the flesh were divided almost equally between the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, beginning Sept. 28, 1882, closing Jan. 12, 1913. He grew from childhood into manhood in the vicinities of Hammond and Cerro Gordo, Ill., being the eighth child and seventh son in a family of ten children. His parents were David and Elizabeth Miller Heckman, both of German Brethren descent.

Frank was a typical country boy, sharing in the tasks of the farm, attending the district school, forming neighborhood associates, both helpful and otherwise, and developing aspirations for the future. He was a faithful attendant of the Sunday-school in the Brick (Oakley) church, and there, during an evangelistic service conducted by Bro. A. G. Crosswhite, he committed his life to the Lord at the age of sixteen. Not long after this, through the influence of an older brother, and of Bro. J. G. Royer, it was arranged for Franklin to attend school at Mount Morris. A new epoch had begun for the farmer lad.

Character-moulding impressions were made during his five years of study and associations at Mount Morris. There he met Sister Minna Mote, of Ohio, his future wife. There he once decided for the medical profession, but was turned from it by friends who feared ill results, spiritually. With only a passing thought for the ministry, his ambition centered upon the position of a teacher of Latin and English. He finished the Latin-Scientific and Expression Courses and entered upon work in Liberal Arts. He hoped, after teaching a while, to enter the State University for further study.

After a brief experience in a country school, B. F. became principal of the Cerro Gordo High School for the years 1905-1907. Soon there came the turning point of his life. Under the pastorate of Bro. J. W. Lear the Cerro Gordo church called Bro. Heckman to the ministry Dec. 31, 1905. Now he was confronted with the problem of revising life plans or neglecting the new responsibility. He had been married June 21, 1905, and his companion encouraged him to decide in favor of the church. Next came the question of fuller preparation. The Lord settled that by sending Bro. A. C. Wieand to conduct a Bible Institute at Cerro Gordo during the holidays of 1906. Here grew up an interest in Bethany Bible School, which he entered in the autumn of 1907.

In Bethany Bro. Heckman finished the Seminary Course, and during 1910-11 taught Hebrew and Old Testament Exegesis. Two summers were spent in study at Chicago University. He lacked credits only in science for qualifying for the A. B. degree, and at the time of his death was writing a thesis, preparatory to receiving the degree, Bachelor of Divinity. This manuscript lay on his desk unfinished when his summons came. He was under contract to teach at Bethany during 1911-12.

Quoting his own statements we are able to trace the development of his missionary call and the response to it: "At Mount Morris I became interested in missions in a casual way. Shortly after our marriage we thought some of mission work, but not seriously." This latter instance was at the time when the Church of the Brethren first consecrated missionaries for China at the Springfield (Ill.) Conference. The burden of heathen souls was beginning to be laid upon his heart. Through his experience in the Rescue Mission in Chicago and in Springfield, Ill., B. F. was led to say, "I am convinced that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation, and men are really willing to listen to it."

The call from across the waters was becoming clearer. In 1908 the Mission Board of Southern Illinois asked Bro. Frank to become the District representative on the foreign field when he had completed his course. No definite promise was given, but Brother and Sister Heckman placed their lives subject to the Spirit's guidance.

To quote B. F. further, "Bethany taught missions; she has also taught that the post of duty is the place of blessing."

Then came Bro. Hilton to present China's needs so forcibly that no clearer call was needed. The Lord was told that if he would remove all obstacles the Heckmans were ready to go to China. The way was fully opened and with the other missionaries they were consecrated at the St. Joseph (Mo.) Conference. Just prior to sailing, in September, 1911, in a special service at Bethany, B. F., together with Brethren Paul Mohler and J. Homer Bright, was ordained to the full ministry.

Landing at Tien Tsin, the missionaries were detained nearly a year from going into the interior, owing to revolutionary troubles. Here the time was well spent in language study, at which B. F. proved himself quite proficient. In the disposition of workers, the Heckmans were stationed at Ping Ting Chou, and plans were formulated whereby B. F. was to inaugurate work along Bible School lines. He anticipated this with keen pleasure and wrote enthusiastically of it to friends in America. Then came the end, when malignant smallpox ran its fatal course, despite praying hearts and ministering hands.

Bro. Heckman gave promise of being an able evangelist and teacher in China, because he had been successful in these activities in the homeland. His connection with Bethany Bible School was sympathetic and intimate, and none are able to speak more clearly of his spiritual development than the brethren of that institution. Of him Bro. E. B. Hoff says: "I regarded B. F. as a very strong Bible student. No one in my classes ever evinced a more genuine desire for careful Bible interpretation. He was always eager to discover new truth and quick to turn it to practical use in his own living and preaching. It was a pleasure to have him in class. Frequently he discovered the entire setting and development of a sermon at a glance, which his notebook preserved."

Bro. A. C. Wieand adds this testimony: "Bro. Heckman's work as teacher in Bethany Bible School was well received from the first, and he grew very rapidly into one of our strongest teachers. It was remarkable what the Lord did for him by the power of the Spirit under the teaching of his Word. In the Rescue Mission work and in the ministry his work also was most acceptable and fruitful. We took much care and pains to help him develop in time into one of the mainstays of the institution, and when he felt the urgent conviction to go to China, we released him, not because he could be spared, but because we all loved the work he had set his heart upon and did not dare to lay one thing in the way of the progress of missions. We felt assured that if the Lord had indeed called him there, he who cared thus for China would with equal faithfulness provide for his cause here. And he has."

As a Christian, B. F. experienced a distinct growth. He passed from lukewarmness into full and warm sympathy with Christ and the church. His talent for leadership was devoted to the glory of God. Characteristic of him were his optimism, his faithfulness to conviction, and his readiness to be at the work which was his to do. In evangelism he was quick to make his points and apply them tactfully. In Bible teaching he was careful not to intermingle opinion with principle.

Bro. Heckman's life was of great value in its uplift upon others, but his death also has its message in the heart-quickenings which mean greater consecration in the homeland and abroad. I know of decisions made stronger for the foreign field because Frank was called home, and a gap was made in the China ranks. The circumstances surrounding his departure have emphasized the medical needs of our missions and a response is forthcoming. The ways of Jehovah are marvelous in their eternal bearing, and the calling of our brother may be one of God's ways of working grace in the church.

Memorial services were held in the chapel at Mount Morris, at Cerro Gordo, at Sister Heckman's home church in Ohio, and at Bethany. The body of Bro. Heckman rests on a grassy slope overlooking the city of Ping Ting Chou, Shansi, China, and on the stone at the head of his grave is inscribed one of his favorite Bible texts: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service."

The Man with the Oil Can.

In a charming little book, Dr. Parkhurst's "The Sunny Side of Christianity," this incident is related: One day there was a workman aboard a trolley-car and he noticed that every time the door was pushed open it squeaked. Rising from his seat he took a little can from his pocket, let fall a drop of anti-irritant on the offending spot, and sat down again, quietly remarking,—"I always carry an oil can in my pocket, for there are so many squeaky things that a drop of oil will correct." The suggestion of that oil can is a most beautiful one. Perhaps what this old world needs more than anything else is a company of people who will make it their calling to soften up the rough edges of life; pour a drop of oil on the squeaky places. There are so many people who are doing the other thing, making doors move hard, letting rust grow where there should be smoothly-oiled joints; people who are seemingly never happy only when they hear some screech, an unpleasantness between folks. Blessings on the people who carry oil cans! They shall have a great reward!

Where the Annual Meetings Have Been Held.

History grows. There is something to be added each year, and at times it becomes wise to repeat some facts for the information of the younger readers. In this way history can be brought up to date.

It would seem that the Brethren held no General Conferences in Germany. They did not feel the need of such a meeting. They commenced emigrating to America in 1719, and by 1729 most of them, including Alexander Mack, were on the Western Continent. Considering the conditions, the churches multiplied rapidly, and in 1742 a General Conference was convened. The object of the meeting was to unify the churches on the New Testament teachings, and to protect the members against certain outside influences.

As these meetings were arranged for from year to year, no one ever thought of creed making. The object was not to formulate rules, but to study the Scriptures on points about which there might be a difference, and then unite on what was evidently the meaning of the written Word. Minutes were kept of the proceedings, and in this way the Minutes of the Annual Meeting came about.

From 1742 to 1777, a period of thirty-five years, we have no record of the Conferences that were held, nor are we sure that one was held each year. The record from 1777 to the present, with the exception of twenty-two years, is quite complete:

An Infidel Answered.

There was once a Pennsylvania Dutchman who was not very learned, but who was never ashamed of his religion. In his neighborhood there was a skeptic who said, "You can't believe anything you can't understand." And so some of the better class of people asked the Dutchman to have a conversation with him. He said, "Yes, if you t'ink best."

"Have you any objection to the neighbors coming in?"

"No, shust as you t'ink best."

So they made the appointment and everybody was there. The old gentleman came in and laid by his hat and was introduced to the skeptic, when he began suddenly by saying, "I beliefs de Bible; vat you beliefs?"

Said he, "I don't believe anything I can't understand."

"Oh, you must be von very smart man! I vas mighty glad I meet you. I ask you some questions. De odder day I vas riding along de road, und, I meet von dog. Dat dog he have von of his ears stand up in dis vay, and de odder he stand down so. Now, vy was dat?"

That was very unhandy just then, very unhandy. He either had to explain why the dog had one ear up and the other standing down, or else say he did not believe it. So he said, "I don't know."

"Oh, den, you are not so very smart after all. I ask you anodder question. I saw in John Smidt's clover patch the clover come up so nice! Und I look ofer in de fields and dere was John Smidt's pigs, and dere come out hair on dere packs; und in de very same clover patch vas his sheep und dere came out wool on dere packs. Now, vy vas dat?"

This was as bad as the other question because the same perplexity arose. He had to explain why there was hair on the back of the pigs and wool on the sheep, and as he could not tell why, therefore he had no business to believe it. Finally he said, "I don't know."

"Vell," said the Dutchman, "you are not haf so smart as you tink you are. Now I asks you anodder question: Do you pleef dere is a God?"

"No, I don't believe any such nonsense."

"Oh, yes, I hear about you long ago. I hear about you. My Bible knows about you; for in my Bible he says: 'The fool hath said in his heart there is no God; but you big fool; you blab it right out.'"

Seven Wonders.

The seven wonders in ancient times were the Pyramids, Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Tomb of Mausolus, Temple of Diana at Ephesus, Colossus of Rhodes, Statue of Zeus, by Phidias, and the Pharos of Egypt. The seven modern American wonders are Niagara Falls, Yellowstone Park, Mammoth Cave, Garden of the Gods, Colorado, Natural Bridge, Virginia, Yosemite Valley, and the Giant Trees of California.

The Bridal Winecup.

Selected by Bro. Luther Rhodes.

"Pledge with wine—pledge with wine! cried the young and thoughtless Harvey. "Pledge with wine!" ran through the bridal party.

The beautiful bride grew pale. She pressed her hands together, and the leaves of her bridal wreath trembled on her brow; her breath came quicker, and her heart beat wilder.

"Yes, Marion, lay aside your scruples for this once," said the judge, in a low tone; "the company expect it. Do not so seriously infringe upon the rules of etiquette. In your own home do as you please; but in mine, for this once, please me."

Every eye was turned toward the bridal pair. Marion's principles were well known. Harvey had been a convivialist, but of late his friends had noticed the change in his manners and the difference in his habits. Pouring a brimming cup, they held it with tempting smiles toward Marion. She was very pale, though now more composed. Smiling, she accepted the crystal tempter and raised it to her lips. But scarcely had she done so when every hand was arrested by her piercing exclamation of "Oh, how terrible!"

"What is it?" cried one and all, for she had slowly carried the glass at arm's length, and was regarding it as though it was some hideous object.

"Wait," she answered, "wait, and I will tell you. I see," she added, slowly pointing one of her jeweled fingers at the sparkling liquid, "a sight that beggars all description; and yet listen,—I will paint it for you, if I can.

"It is a lovely spot; tall mountains, crowned with verdure, rise in awful sublimity around; a river runs through, and bright flowers grow to the water's edge. There is a thick, warm mist that the sun seeks vainly to pierce. Trees, lofty and beautiful, wave to the motion of the breeze. But there a group of Indians gather, and flit to and fro with something like sorrow upon their dark brows; and in their midst lies a manly form,—but his cheek, how deathly!—his eyes, how wildly they glare around with the fitful fire of fever! One friend stands beside him,—I should say kneels,—for see! he is pillowing that poor head upon his breast. Genius in ruins on the high, holy-looking brow! Why should death mark it, and he so young? Look! How he throws back the damp curls! See him clasp his hands! Hear him shriek for life! How he clutches at the form of his companion, imploring to be saved! Oh, hear him call piteously his father's name! See him twine his fingers together, as he shrieks for his sister,—the twin of his soul. See! His arms are lifted to heaven! How wildly he prays for mercy! But fever rushes through his veins. The friend is beside him, weeping, awe-stricken; the dark men move silently away, and leave the living and the dying together!"

There was a hush in that princely parlor, broken only by what seemed a smothered sob from some manly bosom. The bride stood yet upright, with quivering lips, and tears streaming down her pallid cheeks. Her arm had lost its extension; and the glass, with its contents, came slowly toward the range of her vision. She spoke again. Every lip was mute; her voice was low, faint, yet distinct. Still she fixed her sorrowful glance upon the winecup:

"It is evening now; the great white moon is coming up, and her beams fall gently on his forehead. He moves not; his eyes are growing dim. In vain his friend whispers the name of father and sister; no soft hand and no gentle voice bless and soothe him. He sinks back; one convulsive shudder—he is dead!"

A groan ran through the assembly. So vivid was her description, so unearthly was her look, so inspired her manner, that what she described seemed actually to have taken place then and there. They noticed, also, that the bridegroom had hidden his face, and was weeping.

"Dead!" she repeated, her lips quivering faster, and her voice more broken,—"and there they scoop him a grave; and there, without a shroud, they lay him down in the damp, cold earth,—the only son of a proud father, and the idolized brother of a fond sister; and he sleeps today in that distant country, with no stone to mark his grave; there he lies,—my father's son, my own twin brother,—a victim of this deadly poison! Father," she exclaimed, turning suddenly, while the tears rolled down her beautiful face,—“father, shall I drink the poison now?"

The form of the judge was convulsed with agony. He raised not his head; but in a smothered voice, he faltered,—“No, no, my child!—for heaven's sake, no!"

She lifted the glittering goblet, and, letting it fall suddenly to the floor, it was dashed to pieces. Many a tearful eye watched her movement, and instantaneously every glass was transferred to the marble table. Then, as she looked at the fragments of crystal, she turned to the company, saying, "Let no friend hereafter, who loves me, tempt me to peril my soul for wine, or any other poison. Not firmer are the everlasting hills than my resolve, God helping me, never to touch or taste the terrible poison. And he, to whom I have given my hand,—who watched over my brother's dying form in that land of gold,—will sustain me in this resolve, will you not, my husband?" His glistening eyes, his sad, sweet smile, was his answer.

The judge had left the room; but when he returned and, with a more subdued manner, took part in the entertainment of the bridal guests, no one could fail to see that he, too, had determined to banish the enemy at once and forever from that princely home.

Reader, this is no fiction. I was there, and heard the words, which I have penned as nearly as I can recollect them. This bride, her husband, and her brother, who died in the gold regions of California, were schoolmates of mine. Those who were present at that wedding of my associates never forgot the impression, so solemnly made, and all, from that hour, forsook the social glass.

A Boy's Composition.

Water is found everywhere, especially when it rains, as it did the other day, when our cellar was half full. Jane had to wear her father's rubber boots to get the onions for dinner. Onions make your eyes water, and so does horseradish, when you eat too much. There is a good many kinds of water in the world—rain-water, soda-water, holy-water and brine. Water is used for a good many things. Sailors use it to go to sea on. If there wasn't any ocean the ships could not float and they would have to stay ashore. Water is a good thing to fire at boys with a squirt and to catch fish in. My father caught a big one the other day, and when he hauled it up it was an eel! Nobody could be saved from drowning if there wasn't any water to pull them out of. Water is first-rate to put fires out with. I love to go to fires and see the men work at the engines. This is all I can think of about water—except the flood.—Industrial School Gem.

All Entered the Ministry.

When Miss Lucy wanted particularly fine chickens, she always drove over to see old Aunt Etta, who had a scrap of a farm and made a specialty of raising chickens for the quality folks.

One day, as the lady stopped in front of the cabin, Aunt Etta came out and hung over the gate.

"Chickens!" she exclaimed, in answer to her customer's request,—“chickens! Why, law, Miss Lucy, don't you all know there's been a camp-meetin' and preachers' conference down here? Why, I ain't got one chicken left. They're all done entered the ministry."

A Scene in Life

By Peter Brower.

Two boys were reared in the same community, attended the same school, entered high school together, were generally in the same classes. One was bright, intelligent and witty, generally at the head of his class. He could take a glance at his lessons and have them committed. Many others longed, and only wished they had the insight and aptness that he had. He was the admiration of the whole school. He seemed to be a born leader. The other one was not so apt, was more generally at the foot of his classes, was of a reserved nature, and when examination days arrived did not get such good grades; yet, with perseverance and hard study, he managed to keep in the same classes.

Both finished their school work and started on the rugged path of life for themselves. One married a charming young lady. They did not accept Jesus as their Savior. They may have thought they would attend to that later. Several children blessed this home, and things seemed to move along very well for a while; but alas! a day came when the man who had said he would protect and provide for those of his own, was found in the ditch. He was down lower than the brute creation.

Early in life he had formed the wrong associations; he had gone in the paths of sin. Friends, just for friendship's sake had invited him to partake of the intoxicating bowl. No doubt, as many other young men, he thought this would be the only time, but, sad to say, his appetite for the soul-damning stuff increased. He had plenty of the same kind of friends who helped him on his downward course.

The bloom from the cheeks of his young, fair wife soon faded away. Her once quick and active step was changed to a more moderate pace. Her upright form grew more inclined. Their fine residence was exchanged for a mere hovel. Instead of the man whom she loved as God designed, supporting her and caring for her, she was largely left to care for herself. She was often seen gathering a few fagots, that she might keep herself and little ones from perishing from the effects of the wintry blasts. Through the place they called home, the fierce winds would pass. Sometimes the sun would pierce through the openings in the walls, and add a ray of comfort to their desolate condition. Through the effects of Demon Alcohol upon the head of the family, many other sins and indulgences took hold of him, and he became more alienated from his dear one, whom he had promised to love and protect. A few months later the mother was taken suddenly ill. She rapidly grew worse, until one day, just as spring approached with all its grandeur and beauty, she passed away.

Some said that from over-exposure and anxiety for her family she had contracted "quick consumption"; others said that it was from a broken heart. After the mother had been laid away, the children were scattered; the home, the dearest place on earth, was broken up. Awhile later in life, the father, letting alcohol have full control, went to a distant city and became intoxicated. A train passed over his body, crushing out the last part of his wrecked life. He was brought home a corpse. The noble mind and intellect that should have been used to God's glory, were lost through the effects of alcohol!

The other young man also married. He and his young companion had accepted Christ and entered into fellowship with God's people. When they started out on life's pathway together, they invited Christ into their home; they set up the family altar; they became active workers in his service. The home was blessed with children who grew up to be useful men and women. God blessed the home with abundance. Under their roof rested many a weary pilgrim, and they gave of their time and much of their means to convert the world and make humanity better. Down to old age they lived together in peace and happiness. The world is made better by their living in it. Many will call them blessed, and through the hour of transition to the other world, the "rod and staff" of the Master will comfort them. Young man, young woman, which example will you follow? The two ways are before you; you have your choice.

Questions for Boys and Girls

If you are good at guessing or answering, here are a few questions you can wrestle with: You can see any day a white horse, but did you ever see a white colt? How many different kinds of trees grow in your neighborhood and what are they good for? Why does a horse eat grass backward and a cow forward? Why does a hop vine wind one way and a bean vine the other? Where should a chimney be the larger, at the top or bottom, and why? Can you tell why a horse when tethered with a rope always unravels it, while a cow always twists it into a kinky knot? Can you tell why leaves turn upside down just before a rain? What wood will bear the greatest weight before breaking? Why are all cow-paths crooked?

Fingers Before Forks

Oliver Wendell Holmes enjoyed nothing so much as a clever retort, even if it happened to be at his own expense. One day at an entertainment he was seated near the refreshment table and observed a little girl looking with longing eyes at the good things.

With his invariable fondness for children he asked, kindly, "Are you hungry, little girl?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"Then why don't you take a sandwich?"

"Because I haven't any fork."

"Fingers were made 'before forks,'" said the doctor, smilingly.

The little girl looked up at him and replied, to his delight, "Not my fingers."

Flattened Out

An evangelist was on a train with a preacher who had gone off into some kind of Christian Science craze and destructive criticisms. He said to the evangelist, "I tell you, my brother, I have broadened out." "Oh, no," said the evangelist, "the trouble with you is you have flattened out." It looked like it, for instead of preaching to hundreds, as he once did, he confessed he was talking to a dozen in a parlor twice a week.

The Annual Meeting for 1914

For the second time, in the history of the Brotherhood, the General Conference, this year, will be held west of the Rocky Mountains. The place selected is Seattle, Washington, and the date for the opening of the Conference proper is June 23. The Standing Committee, however, will meet and organize on Thursday, June 18.

The location for the meeting is said to be ideal, and the accommodations fully as good as ever enjoyed at any of our Conference gatherings. May we not have a good representation from all parts of the Brotherhood?

Finger Posts on Life's Highway

By John T. Dale.

DO you want to know how to succeed in life? Read this book. It contains 620 pages, covering more than one hundred articles, each of which is a "finger post" pointing a road to success. It is a key to true development of mind and heart, and happiness here and beyond. The author has had unusual opportunities for exercising his faculty of close observation in country and city life, and this collection of articles is the result of many years' gathering. A wise maxim, or rule of business has saved many a fortune; a word of caution has saved many a precious life, and a word of warning many a soul. Such words and maxims are found in this volume. As a book for a family library it is immensely valuable. There are chapters for all, regardless of sex, age, condition in life, calling or profession. Be sure to include this in the list of books you buy this year. Bound in cloth, Price, $1.50. Special terms to agents.

Where Men of Ambition Prosper

this favored land.

Dairying, trucking, fruit growing, poultry raising and general farming are making Southern farmers independent.

Land from $15 an Acre Up

Plenty of rain and ample sunshine every month, irrigation unnecessary. Growing season from 7 to 10 months duration. Two and three crops raised annually. Local markets plentiful and profitable. Early vegetables and fruit bring high prices in Northern cities.

Modern schools and highways, good churches, rural telephones, healthful climate and delightful summers and winters make the South the most desirable location in America for Homeseekers.

Brethren Publishing House - Elgin, Ill.

Dear Almanac Reader:..

You have been reading and hearing of the MIAMI VALLEY of NEW MEXICO for a number of years. You know of its phenomenal development, largely by Brethren people, from a cow range to a modern up to date irrigated community.

The MIAMI COMMUNITY is now nearly five years old. Every year has marked a steady, healthy growth.

The past year has been one of the best in her history, because we have raised big crops and sold them at high prices. Our young orchards, of which you know we have several hundreds of acres, have made an excellent growth and practically none of the trees have been lost from any cause. We have enlarged our school building and are now giving training in all regular public school branches, including high school. Above all we have dedicated one of the finest Churchhouses of the Church of the Brethren in the Southwest.

What we need is more people of just the class who are here now.

We have the soil, water, climate, and social environment for the acquisition of wealth and for an ideal home.

To encourage development we are selling our lands on very easy terms. We also have a few attractive propositions for rental.

If you desire an investment or a home or both, please write us stating your desires and ask for particulars about MIAMI.

Yours very truly,

FARMERS DEVELOPMENT COMPANY,
